Child Poverty in California: Evidence from the California Poverty Measure

December 2017

Sarah Bohn and Caroline Danielson

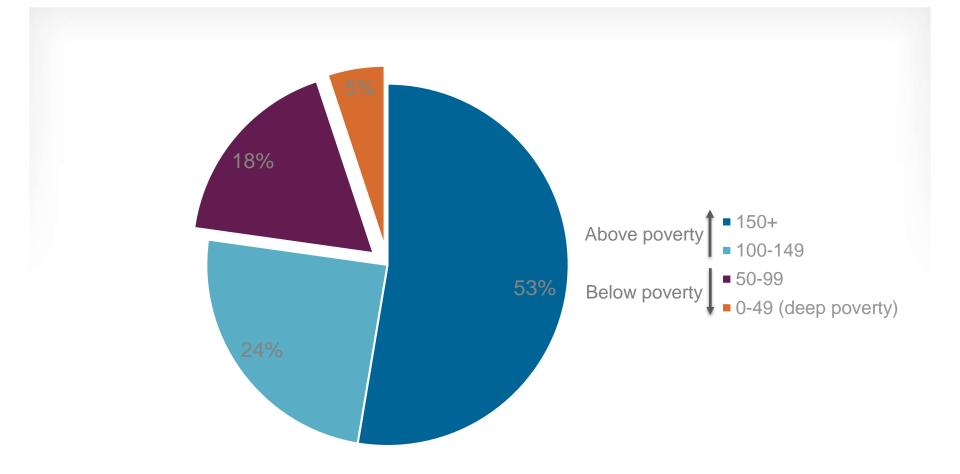

Outline

- Prevalence of poverty and deep poverty
- Poverty and work
- Role of the social safety net

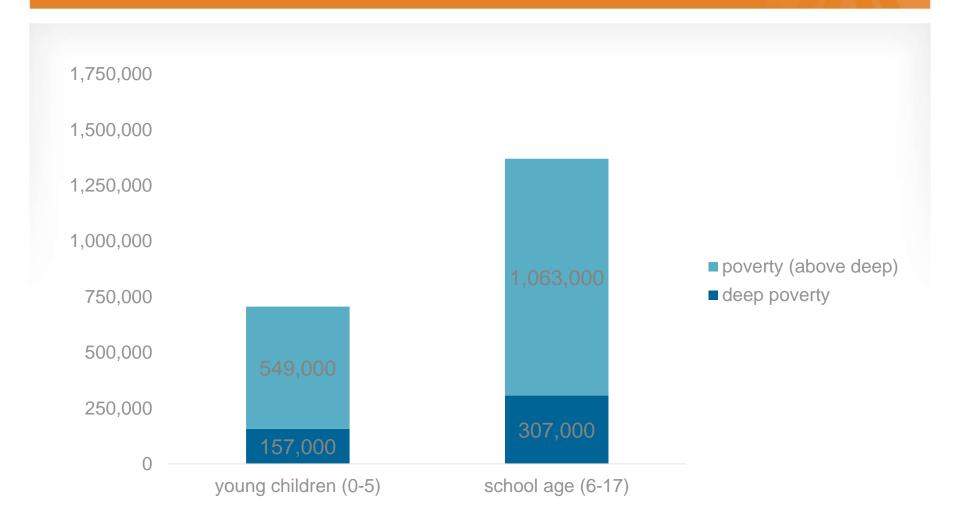

Nearly a quarter of California children are poor

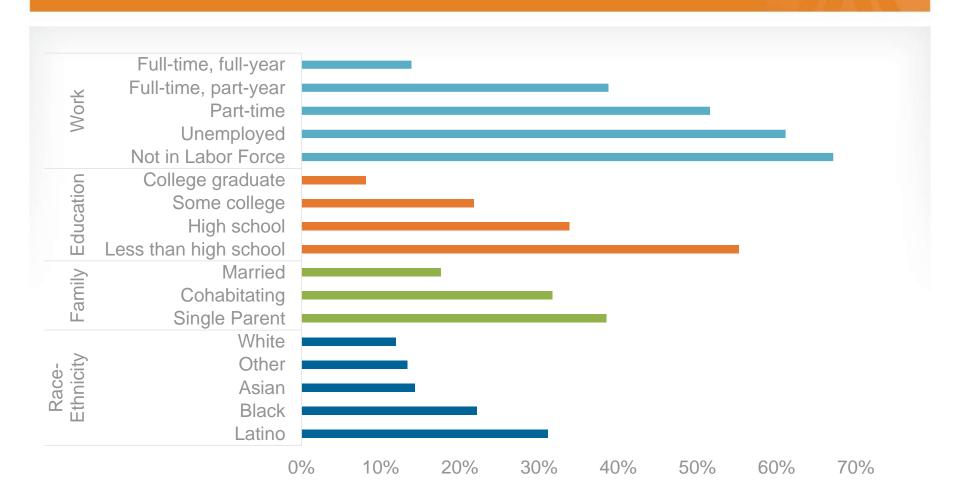

Close to half a million are in deep poverty

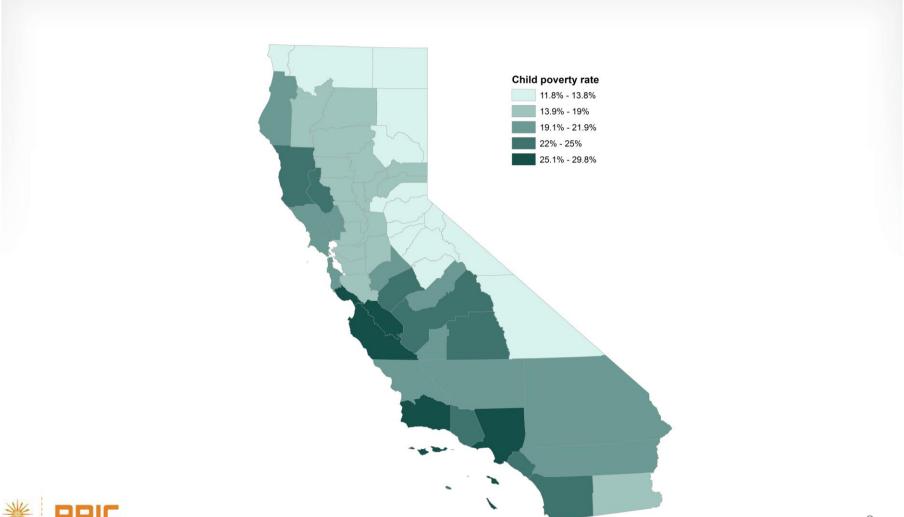

Child poverty varies widely across subgroups

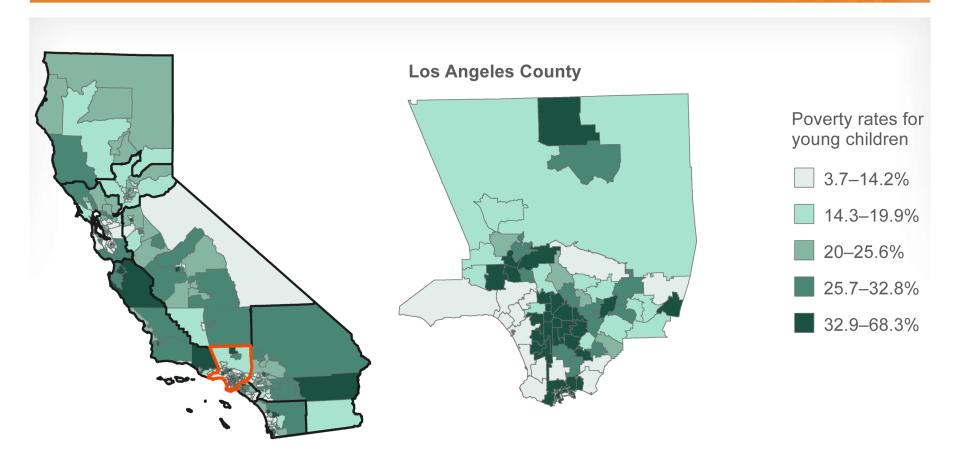

...and across counties

Within counties poverty can be highly concentrated

Outline

- Prevalence of poverty and deep poverty
- Poverty and work
- Role of the social safety net

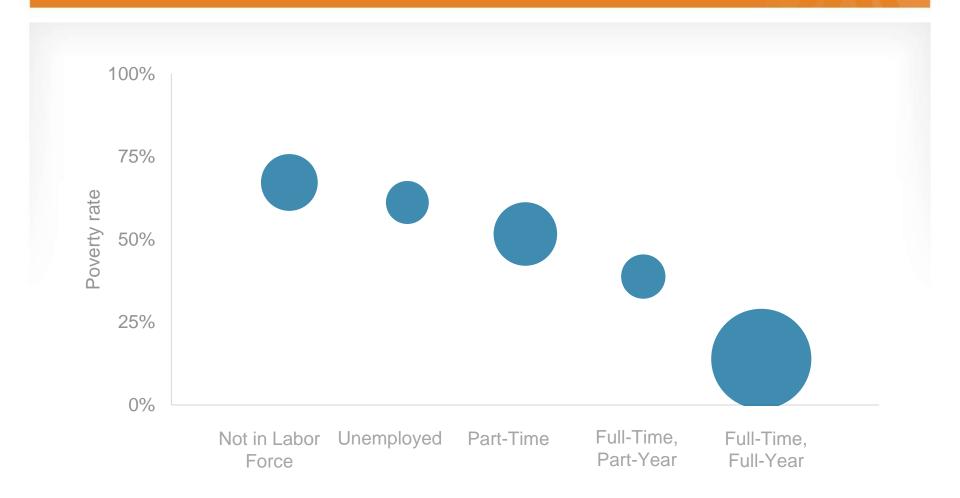

Most poor children are in two-parent, working families

- A majority of poor children in California (56%) are in married, two-parent households
- Almost half (47%) have at least one parent working fulltime year-round
 - Another 9% working full-time part-year
 - And 19% working part-time
- One-third have parent(s) with at least some college education

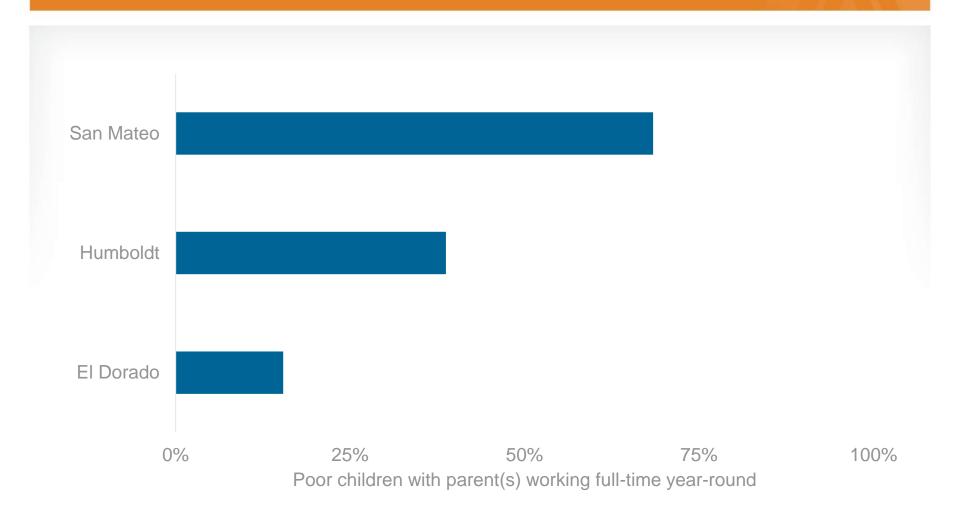

Full-time, year-round work is the most common employment status

Parental work status does vary substantially across the state

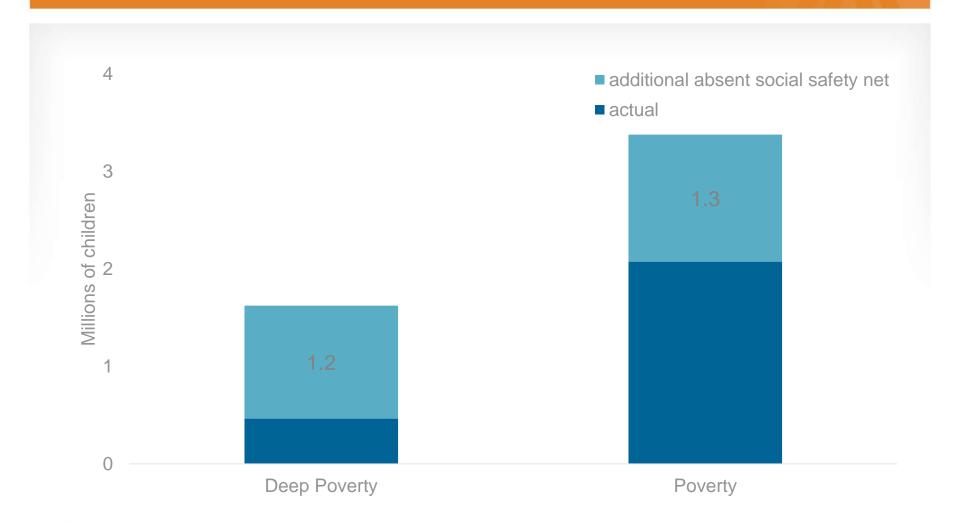

Outline

- Prevalence of poverty and deep poverty
- Poverty and work
- Role of the social safety net

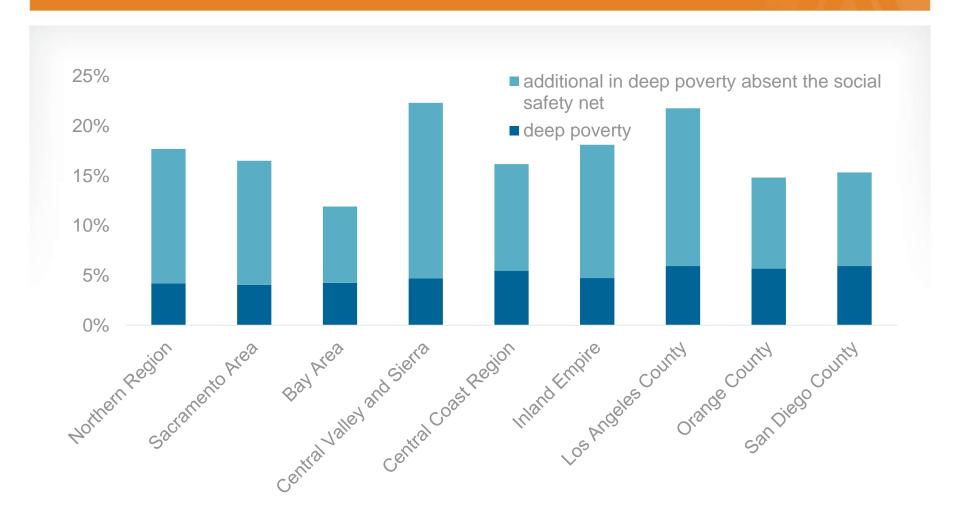

Over a million more children would be poor absent the current social safety net

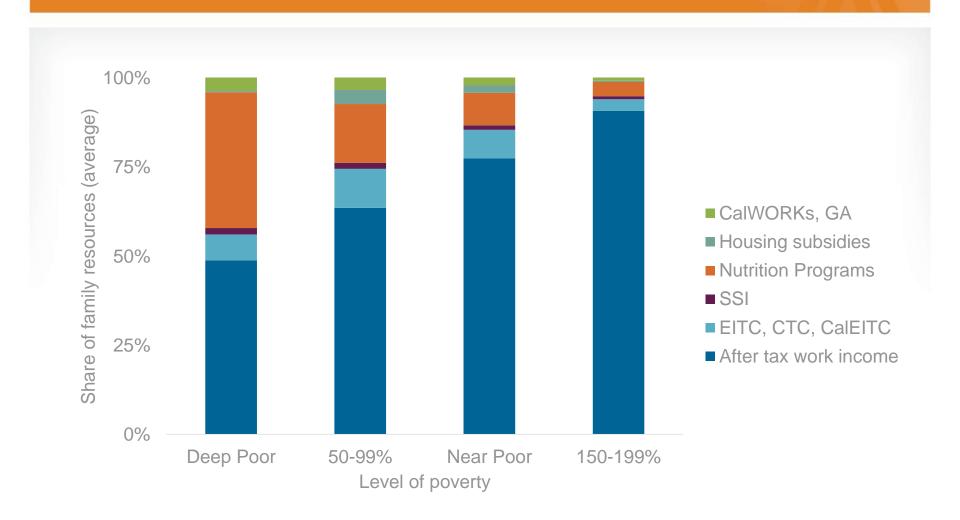

Regional differences in deep poverty are moderated by the social safety net

Safety net resources do more than just boost some children above the poverty line

Our updated understanding of poverty

- 2.1 million California children in poverty
 - Including 460,000 in deep poverty
- Safety net resources moderate deep poverty very substantially
 - And likewise mitigates poverty
 - But California's high cost of living offsets these gains

Additional resources

- Fact sheets
 - California's Poverty Rate Goes Down, but 7.5 Million Remain Poor (Stanford/CPI)
 - Child poverty in California (PPIC)
- Interactive maps
 - Geography of child poverty in California (PPIC)
 - Reducing child poverty in California (PPIC)

Notes on the use of these slides

These slides were created to accompany a presentation. They do not include full documentation of sources, data samples, methods, and interpretations. To avoid misinterpretations, please contact:

Sarah Bohn (bohn@ppic.org; 415-291-4413) Caroline Danielson (danielson@ppic.org; 415-291-4462)

Thank you for your interest in this work.

